With stunning artwork by Matt Frank and an epic storyline by Chris Mowry, Godzilla: Rulers of Earth #18 is a must-have for any fan of the King of the Monsters. This issue is a turning point in the series, and it sets the stage for the epic to the "Rulers of Earth" storyline.

The Story

Godzilla: Rulers of Earth #18 picks up where the previous issue left off, with Godzilla and his allies facing off against the combined forces of the Ghidorahs and the Xiliens. The battle is fierce, and the fate of the world hangs in the balance.

As the battle rages, Godzilla is forced to confront his own inner demons. He has seen the destruction that he has caused, and he begins to question whether he is truly a force for good. This inner turmoil makes him vulnerable to the Ghidorahs, who use his hesitation to their advantage.

Just when all hope seems lost, Godzilla's allies arrive to his aid. Together, they are able to defeat the Ghidorahs and the Xiliens, and save the world from destruction.

The Artwork

Matt Frank's artwork in Godzilla: Rulers of Earth #18 is simply stunning. His Godzilla is a towering behemoth, and his Ghidorahs are truly terrifying. The battle scenes are epic in scope, and the sense of scale is breathtaking.

Frank's use of color is also noteworthy. The colors are vibrant and насыщенный, and they help to create a sense of atmosphere and mood. The reds and oranges of the battle scenes are particularly effective, and they convey the sense of urgency and danger.

The Impact

Godzilla: Rulers of Earth #18 was a critical and commercial success. It was praised for its stunning artwork, epic storyline, and groundbreaking character development. This issue is considered to be one of the best Godzilla comics ever published, and it has had a lasting impact on the Godzilla mythos.
