History

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 was founded by a group of Vietnam War veterans who were disillusioned with society. The club's early members were mostly blue-collar workers who were attracted to the club's sense of camaraderie and brotherhood. The club quickly gained a reputation for violence and lawlessness, and by the early 1970s, it had become one of the most feared outlaw motorcycle clubs in the United States.

In the 1980s, the Savage Devil Fury MC 10 expanded its operations into drug trafficking. The club became a major distributor of methamphetamine and cocaine, and its involvement in the drug trade led to a number of violent confrontations with rival gangs.

In the 1990s, the Savage Devil Fury MC 10 was targeted by law enforcement agencies. The club's leaders were arrested and charged with a variety of crimes, including murder, racketeering, and drug trafficking. The club's membership declined, and its influence was greatly diminished.

Members

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 is a male-only club. Members are typically white, working-class men who have a history of criminal activity. The club's members are known for their loyalty to the club and their willingness to use violence to protect their interests.

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 has a strict hierarchy. The club is led by a president, who is responsible for the overall operation of the club. The president is assisted by a vice president, secretary, treasurer, and road captain. Each chapter of the club is led by a chapter president, who reports to the national president.

Culture

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 has a strong culture that emphasizes loyalty, brotherhood, and violence. The club's members are expected to be loyal to the club and to its members. They are also expected to be willing to use violence to protect the club's interests.

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 has a number of rituals and traditions that are important to its members. These rituals and traditions include the wearing of club colors, the flying of club flags, and the holding of club meetings. The club also has a number of events and rallies that are attended by members from all over the country.

Events and Rallies

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 holds a number of events and rallies throughout the year. These events and rallies are a way for members to socialize, network, and celebrate their club. The club's most popular events include the annual National Run, which is held in a different city each year, and the annual Memorial Run, which is held to honor members who have died.

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10's events and rallies are often attended by large crowds of people. These events and rallies are a way for the club to show its strength and unity. They are also a way for the club to recruit new members.

The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 is one of the most notorious and well-known outlaw motorcycle clubs in the United States. The club has a long history of violence and criminal activity. However, the club also has a strong culture that emphasizes loyalty, brotherhood, and violence. The Savage Devil Fury MC 10 is a powerful and influential organization that is likely to continue to be a major force in the outlaw motorcycle club scene for many years to come.
